An aerial photograph of a large industrial or commercial building complex. The building has a complex footprint with several interconnected sections. A specific section of the building, located towards the right side of the image, is highlighted with a blue rectangular outline. This highlighted section has a distinct reddish-brown roof, while the rest of the building has a light-colored, possibly white or grey, roof. The surrounding area includes a paved road on the left with some vehicles, and a dirt or gravel area on the right. The image is a satellite view from Google Earth.
